Pandit Ghanshyam ji's work on Traffic Sense is guided by Hon'ble Union Cabinet Minister Nitin Gadkari's close friends, Dr. Chandrashekhar Mohite, Riyaz Sayyed, and Trupti Parmeshvar Kadre, a lawyer from Rajasthan Ajmer High Court. Inspired by their guidance, his work continues to expand daily!The human brain has two types of thinking systems: emotional and rational. Information input goes to the hippocampus, then to the limbic system, and finally leads to action formation. If the neocortex is trained, a person can think rationally and make better decisions, avoiding impulsive actions.

Dr. Pandit Ghanshyam Ji suggests incorporating the nuances of psychoanalysis in educational institutions to promote social well-being, traffic sense, and address issues like cybercrime and social violence. He also emphasizes the need for a similar approach in Indian politics, which has deteriorated over time <sup>1</sup>.

Dr. Ghanshyam Ji recommends using Albert Ellis's Rational Emotive Therapy and Abraham Maslow's Self-Actualization to empower today's youth. He also stresses the importance of "Science of Attention" (Akhanda Dhyana), as advocated by Buddha and Mahavir, to cultivate mindfulness and awareness.

For 35 years, Dr. Ghanshyam Ji has been promoting these ideas through his numerous lectures and cultural programs. Currently, he is actively involved in promoting social harmony through his kirtans and discourses within the Warkari tradition. Inspired by Cabinet Minister Jaykumar Rawal of Maharashtra, a descendant of the brave Maharana Pratap Singh, Pandit Ghanshyam Ji has been delivering lectures in the form of kirtans and discourses, providing a new perspective on Indian history and social justice. His talks are based on the lives of Maharana Pratap Singh, the king of Mewar, and other prominent figures from the Rajput clan.

Pandit Ghanshyam Ji also draws inspiration from renowned historical personalities such as Swami Vivekananda, Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj, Sambhaji Maharaj, Raiappa Mahar, and social reformers like Mahatma Phule, Fatima Sheikh, and Nikodemas. Through his lectures, he emphasizes the importance of social justice and equality, highlighting the relevance of these values in contemporary society.

Conclusion:

Prof. Dr. Pandit Ghanshyam Suman Pundlik Thorat continues to tirelessly fulfill his social and ideological responsibilities through his unwavering efforts and actions.
